

Serving fine foods during Merrill's Quasquicentennial

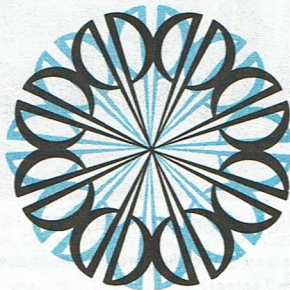

Club Modern began serving customers in 1935 when Mr. Frish owned the building. Elmer Raasch's took over the restaurant and bar until 1955. For 12 years, Herb Schulz ran Club Modern up until 1967 when Steve and Linda Blake bought the restaurant. Remodelled since 1967 Club Modern provides delicious food and superb service to all their customers. The business has grown from 4 employees when it began to 26 to day.

Communicating

Communicating . . . then . . . now . . . is what it's all about. We get acquainted with the printed word in school and as the years go by . . . what ever we do . . . whatever we know . . . whatever we share . . . the printed word is our major source of communicating . . . Quality Print has long been a part of the Merrill vocabulary . . . since the early 1950's when Leslie O'Day purchased the Quality Print Shop it has grown from a one-man shop to a modern graphic arts plant of 45 employees today.
